Using these specifications to choose a product

This is a ferrocerium fire-starting rod with a separate multifunction striker, not a tent. The product photographs show the handle, rod, striker and retaining cord. Keep those components together in the sample description. Ask for the selected rod's dimensions and the instructions supplied with it when planning the retail pack; the image alone does not establish ignition performance or service life.

For compact camping tool kits, compare rod dimensions, striker and kit contents. Include these details with the selected Ferro Rod Fire Starter with Multifunction Striker version in your wholesale quotation request.
